Eldorado's No. 1 Fire Truck Burns in Blazing Wheat Field

$11,000 Loss To City; Driver Is Injured

Combine Damaged, 25 Acres Burn on Nelson Fowler Farm

The city of Eldorado lost its No. 1 fire truck yesterday afternoon in a spectacular wheat field blaze on the Nelson Fowler farm two miles north of the town.

Fire truck loss was estimated at $11,000. There also was damage to Fowler's combine and the fire truck driver, Charlie "Biscuit" Moore, received hospital treatment for burns about both arms and the face.

The fire truck loss was not insured, a city official said last night. The wheat loss, which was 25 acres of grain in a 48-acre field, was insured. Fowler also carried insurance on his combine.

Fire Caught from Combine

The wheat field fire occurred around 2 p. m. Fowler said it apparently caught from the engine of the combine while he was combining wheat in the field just back of his home.

"It caught from the engine some way," he told a Daily Register reporter. "The first thing I knew there was a sort of explosion and there was a fire all at once."

"I grabbed a CO2 fire extinguisher on the combine and got work on the machine. All four of the combine tires were blazing but I got the fire out."

"The wheat field was burning rapidly, however, moving southward toward the road, and was out of control. I got away without getting burned and called for help."

Forced to Abandon Truck

Both Eldorado fire trucks went to the scene. Moore drove into the field and got his 500-gallon booster tank into operation, sending water over the ripe wheat. However, Mayor John David Upchurch stated last night, when the flames got dangerously close, Moore tried to shift the truck gears from operating the booster pump back into moving gear so he could get out of the field and had difficulty in doing so. The flames came up so fast, he said, that Moore had to abandon the truck before he could get it moving and was burned before he could run to safety.

Meanwhile the No. 2 truck, older and less modern than the new one, was stationed near the Fowler buildings to keep the fire from spreading to them. It poured water around the buildings as the fire came about 60 yards from the house.

Loss Is Blow to City

Mayor Upchurch said that the fire truck was purchased about a year ago at a price of $9,500. The equipment it carried brought the total to $11,000, he stated.

"I don't know what we are going to do but we've got to get something," the mayor stated. "Losing the fire truck is quite a blow."

Fire Chief Quentin Wilson, seeing the truck burning in the charred wheat field yesterday afternoon, couldn't hold back his emotions because of its loss.

"We worked awfully hard to get it," he stated.

Police Gives Tickets To Persons Without City Licenses

Police have started giving tickets to persons without city licenses, Chief of Police Loren Travelstead said today. This means that court costs will be added to the price of the license at the city hall, if a ticket is given.

AMA Criticizes National Foundation for Polio Vaccination Program

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The American Medical Association made another attempt today to solve a delicate problem—whether to allow doctors to "split fees" on occasion without being unethical.

The ticklish subject came up Wednesday for the first time at the AMA's 103rd annual convention and touched off a heated but inconclusive debate. The house then ordered a committee to reconsider the matter overnight.

The resolution that sparked the debate would in effect make it easier for a patient to pay his bills. Under present medical practice a family doctor may refer a case to a surgeon for an operation. The patient then has to pay three bills—family doctor, surgeon and anesthetist.

Dr. George Braunlich of Davenport, Iowa, urged the AMA to let one bill be sent in such cases. He said the patient wants to know his total expense in one bill.

"Too often the patient is broke

Dr. Frankenstein To Intern in Seattle Hospital

Dr. Paul William Frankenstein

Dr. Paul William Frankenstein, who received his degree of Doctor of Dental Surgery last week from the University of Illinois, left Chicago today with Mrs. Frankenstein for Seattle, Wash., where he has an appointment to the U. S. Public Health Service.

Dr. Frankenstein is the son of Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Frankenstein. His father is manager of Carp's store in this city. He is to report in July to the U. S. General hospital in Seattle, where he will intern.

He is a graduate of the Harrisburg Township high school in the Class of 1944. He received his A. B. degree from Stanford university in California in 1948, his B. S. degree in 1950 and his M. S. degree in 1952, both from the same institution.

Dr. Frankenstein is a member of Psi Omega fraternity.

before he gets the last bill," Dr. Braunlich said.

However, Dr. John W. Cline of San Francisco, a surgeon and past president of the AMA, offered a substitute resolution affirming the AMA's "unalterable opposition to split splitting in any guise whatsoever."

Braunlich retorted that "all this talk about ethics is just a screen to enable the surgeon to get all the money."

The AMA became embroiled in a controversy with the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis when it adopted a Texas resolution scolding the foundation for initiating the Salk vaccination program.

The resolution stated the AMA was "surprised and put in a difficult situation so far as public relations were concerned" when without "any official consultation with any qualified group of the AMA" the foundation launched its program to test the serum developed by Dr. Jonas Salk of Pittsburgh, Pa.

In New York, the foundation replied that "every step in the development and trial of the polio vaccine was submitted to, supervised and approved by a committee of distinguished scientists, all of whom are members of the AMA."

The foundation said before the serum was used in any single community, the trial was "approved by the local county medical society, a constituent member of the AMA."

The AMA also slapped at the Veterans Administration. In a resolution sponsored by Florida doctors the AMA criticized free government treatment of veterans who suffer disabilities unrelated to military service.

The AMA's position is that such veterans should go to a civilian doctor and a private hospital if his illness has no connection with his military service.

Issue Permits for Five Oil Tests

Drilling permits have been issued at Springfield for five oil tests, three in Eldorado, one in Galatia and one in Raleigh townships.

The Galatia permit went to the Calvert Drilling Co. of Olney for the J. Bona No. 1, in the SE corner of the NW quarter of Section 23.

Calvert also received a permit for the Ben Davis "B" No. 2 in Raleigh township. It is in the NW corner of the NE quarter of the NE quarter of Section 2.

The Eldorado township permits: To the Miami Operating Co. of Abilene, Texas, for the Robert Bertino No. 1, in the NE corner of the SW quarter of the NW quarter of Section 25.

To the Carter Oil Co., Tulsa, Okla., for the Paul Turner No. 3, SW corner of the NW quarter of the SW quarter of Section 8.

To Nash Redwine of Mt. Vernon, Ill., for the Ruth Stinson No. 1, SE corner of the NW quarter of the NE quarter of Section 20.

State Fire Marshal Quits at Stratton Request

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—Sanford F. Giles resigned as state fire marshal at Gov. William G. Stratton's request, an aide to the governor said today.

William W. Downey told reporters that Stratton informed him before the governor left on a Colorado vacation Tuesday that he had asked for Giles' resignation. Downey said he didn't know why.

Downey had disclosed the acceptance of Giles' resignation Wednesday. At that time, he told reporters he didn't know why the fire marshal was resigning.

Giles, reached at his Oak Park home, said he wanted to leave the state post to devote more time to his veterinary medicine business. He said he didn't have time to handle both jobs adequately.

An appointee of Stratton, Giles held the state position 16 months.

Lay Cornerstone Of Methodist Church Sunday

The cornerstone of the new Methodist church building, now under construction on West Poplar street, will be laid Sunday morning during a service scheduled to commence at 10:40 o'clock.

The ceremony will be conducted during the regular Sunday morning worship hour, with Sunday school adjourning to the church site at 10:30. Members of the church will gather at the front and sides of the sanctuary portion of the new structure for the historic service.

The Rev. W. L. Cummins, pastor of the church, will preside during the program and lead the congregation in the special worship service. The Rev. Dale Harmon, district superintendent of the Harrisburg area, will have a part in the program, and John Schork will direct the congregational singing.

To Open Old Box

During the service the box taken from the cornerstone of the old church will be opened and its contents examined and noted. The cornerstone of the old church was laid on December 15, 1902. Several persons are still living in this community who were present for the cornerstone laying of that edifice.

The old structure has now been torn down to make way for the new church and educational building.

For the past several weeks membership lists and other mementos have been gathered together for placement in the cornerstone of the new church. Bill Stain has constructed a copper box to contain these articles.

Teachers and officers of the various Sunday school classes and church groups will be called to place items in the box, representative of their organizations.

Meek Praises Eisenhower's Power Decision

Says It is About Time Government Got Out of Business Field

METROPOLIS, Ill. (AP)—Joseph T. Meek, Republican candidate for U. S. senator, today praised President Eisenhower's order that private power be used to supply additional needs of an Atomic Energy Commission plant near Paducah, Ky.

"It is most encouraging to note the insistence on the part of the President that private enterprise be favored whenever it is in the scope of the administration to make a decision," Meek told a meeting here.

The former head of the Illinois Federation of Retail Associations said he referred particularly to "a recent White House order refusing to provide any more public funds for construction of added TVA power producing facilities."

"I know Mr. Eisenhower was under terrific pressure to put the government further into the power business," Meek said. "It is to his credit he insisted that the needed power be obtained through a further pooling of private power resources which would supply the TVA plant."

"It is added evidence of the President's determination to keep faith with the American people."

Meek declared "It's about time the government got out of business" such as "the industrial field cited above, grants to specially favored groups and in undertaking functions which should be responsibilities of state and local governments."

In his address to Young Republicans at the Massac County Fair, Meek also criticized American aid to foreign countries.

"My blood boils when I pick up a paper and read where this country has appropriated billions of dollars in out-and-out handouts to some foreign country," he said.

He cited multimillion dollar gifts of American aid to Britain, including funds to build Royal Air Force planes, and the sale of U. S. butter at reduced rates.

As reason for his "exasperation at practices like these," he referred to a headline that read: "3 Millions Is Royal Family's Annual Budget."

"Believe me," Meek said, "it is time we had someone in Washington who will rear up and scream to high heaven about American citizens being sold down the river to keep rulers of foreign countries in luxury."

Meek was scheduled to speak tonight at a fish fry sponsored by the Johnson County Republican organization at Vienna.

He resided in West Frankfort for the past 34 years, moving there from Carrier Mills. He will be remembered by many Saline county residents.

METHODIST WILL GATHER ON THE SITE PICTURED HERE Sunday morning at their regular worship hour for the laying of the cornerstone in the new church building. Recently, the sign shown in the picture was erected to inform travelers of the nature of the construction in progress. The box taken from the cornerstone of the old church will be opened and its contents examined at the ceremony Sunday. (Register Staff Photo)

Major Levees Holding in Des Moines as River Reaches Its Highest Crest

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)—Volunteers battled the surging Des Moines river here today as it reached its greatest height in history and pounded holes in a critical north city levee.

The rushing water hammered through two weak spots in the sandbag topped on the embankment protecting Riverview Park. The emergency dike was broken through twice Wednesday and 40 homes were flooded.

But none of the breaks was major. If the Riverview dike gives way, only the lightly populated park area will be inundated, City Public Works Director John Tippee said.

"All major levees are holding," Tippee said. "There are some defects but they are not too serious."

Rush in Reinforcements
Tippee said "quite a battle" was going on in the Riverview area and reinforcements were rushed to the zone to help hundreds of volunteers slam new sandbags into the cracks.

If the river makes a serious breach in the 5 1/2 miles of levees protecting this capital city of 178,000 population, it could flood one-fifth of Des Moines.

The Des Moines river was running at 30.19 feet at 9 a. m., 7.19 feet over official flood stage. The levees averaged 28 feet in height and as many as 5,000 men, women and children worked at one time to build the embankments to a height of 30 feet or more.

"The situation actually looks pretty good right now," Tippee said. "We've got to keep a close watch and go all out to heal any new breaks that appear. But I think we're going to lick it."

Raccoon Crest Rolling In
Tippee said the threat won't be over for a day or two, until the Raccoon river—which joins the Des Moines river here—crests and begins to recede.

The Des Moines Weather Bureau said the Raccoon should crest at 6 p. m. Friday at 16 1/2 to 17 1/2 feet, five to six feet above bankful. It was at 14 1/2 feet at 9 a. m.

Eisenhower, Benson Proposal Rejected, 8-7

Chairman Aiken Predicts Action will Be Reversed on Floor

By United Press

The Senate Agriculture Committee overrode administration opposition today and voted 8-7 to continue present rigid high farm price supports for one year.

President Eisenhower and Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson want to let the present system—which supports basic crops at 90 per cent of parity—die at the end of this year. They want to replace it with flexible supports ranging from 75 to 90 per cent of parity.

But three Republicans and five Democrats voted for the one-year extension of high supports, generally favored by the congressional farm bloc. Milton R. Young (N.D.), a Republican, made the successful motion.

May Be Election Issue

Chairman George D. Aiken (R-Vt.) of the Senate committee predicted today's action will be reversed on the Senate floor. But Young said the one-year extension has a 50-50 chance of Senate passage and the same chance of surviving a presidential veto.

The proposal to switch to flexible price supports on basic crops next year was the heart of the administration's farm program.

The House Agriculture Committee also rejected it, voting 21-8 early this month to retain the 90 per cent supports for one more year.

The issue may be a big one in this fall's congressional campaigns particularly in the Middle West. Other developments:

Social security: Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, secretary of health, education and welfare, urged the Senate Finance Committee to approve the administration bill to extend social security coverage. She said "great advantages will accrue both to the individuals involved and to the nation."

Military money: The House unanimously approved and sent to the Senate compromise legislation carrying $28,800,125,486 for the military in the fiscal year starting July 1. It was slightly larger than the original House bill, slightly smaller than the Senate version, and more than one billion dollars less than President Eisenhower asked.

Allotments: Chairman Dewey Short (R-Mo.) of the House Armed Services Committee said an investigation of dependency allotments of parents of servicemen has disclosed a "relatively large" number of frauds. He said 15,000 allotments have been cancelled as a result of the inquiry and thousands more are still to be investigated.

Foreign Aid: House Speaker Joseph W. Martin Jr. predicted the $3,470,000,000 foreign aid program next week without any major cuts. The House Foreign Affairs Committee approved all but about $7,000,000 of Mr. Eisenhower's aid request Wednesday.

Army to Draft 20,000 in August

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Defense Department today announced a draft call of 23,000 men for August.

This is the same as the July call. Before that, for several months, the figure was 18,000.

The department said all the men will be assigned to the Army. The Navy, Marine Corps and Air Force do not intend to ask Selective Service for any personnel during August.

Recover Body of Mound City Man

MOUND CITY, Ill. (AP)—The body of Army Sgt. George McIntyre, 35, of Mound City, who drowned in the Ohio river near here Monday, was found in the Mississippi river near East Prairie, Mo., Wednesday.

An initial search for McIntyre was made by Coast Guard, State Conservation and Cairo fire department crews. Army planes from Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo., later joined the search.

McAnally Funeral Saturday at 2 p. m.

The funeral of Mrs. Henry McAnally, Harrisburg resident who died Wednesday in the Lightner hospital, has been postponed until Saturday due to the delayed arrival of the son, Cleo, who lives in Placerville, Calif.

The funeral will be at 2 p. m. at the Dorrisville Baptist church. Rev. Paul Dann and Rev. William Fuson will officiate, and burial will be in Sunset Hill cemetery.

The body lies in state at the Gibbons funeral home.

AN OLD MAN, A WHEEL CHAIR
AND AN INDOMITABLE SPIRIT
By BRUCE BISSAT

Maybe it was the wheel chair
with all the gadgets that did it.
The thing was too perfect, it suggested a too complete dependency.
The old man who got it from a friend liked it at first, but then it made him angry.

He had suffered a stroke, his
second in four years, not too severe yet bad enough to rob him of the power of speech and paral-
yze one side of his face.

His doctor had said to others
that a man of his years couldn't count on regaining speech or the use of paralyzed muscles.

But this fellow never had been
dependent on anybody in his long life. In fact, he had made quite a specialty of independence, even
at the cost of great embarrassment to himself and, on occasion,
some others.

His fruitful days had been marked
by high adventure, by furious
energy spread over a host of varied
activities, by the most dramatic and rewarding experiences
a man of ability and ambition could wish for.

They had also been marred by bitter defeats and rancorous criticisms. But all these he had surmounted, to reach the heights.

Now he was urged by physician
and family to lay down the burdens that normally occupied him,
to save his waning strength, to
stretch out his final days.

He might have listened if it had not been for that wheel chair, with
a button for forward speed, another
for reverse, and one to sound
a bell for the nurse. The nurse—
she spelled dependency, weakness,
yes, helplessness.

It was too much. He wouldn't have it that way. He demanded work. Business papers were brought to him, and he worked.
Associates came to see him. They "conferred," as well as you could
with a man who couldn't talk.

Under the spur of this enforced
effort, the man's power of speech
slowly came back, and he regained
the use of his slackened face
muscles. He got well—as well,
that is, as you could ever hope
for in a man of his age. Not long after that, he took a long trip.
No one would have dreamed a few months before that he could have made it.

Afterwards, even he thought he'd never make another like it. He couldn't expect to get stronger,
and he was sure to get older.

But now the obstacles have somehow melted, and he's doing it
again, defying his friends, his enemies, and the bounds set by his own sagging frame.

The old man's name is Sir Winston Churchill, and he'll be with us soon—without the wheel chair.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

fine deed it had better be done
now. It is later than you think.

The WASHINGTON
MERRY-GO-ROUND
By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says:
Winnie Lasts Like Famed
Nine-Lived Cat: Anglo-American By Birth, Churchill Was Anglo-American In Inclination: Dubious Military Decisions Darken Brilliant Record.

WASHINGTON. — Things you
may not know about Winston Churchill: After Winnie suffered
a stroke last year, he wiggled his toes desperately and persistently
every morning to try to bring back
his circulation. "I'm going to fool Eden yet," he fumed.

Eden is slated to become prime minister if Churchill dies. Two years ago Churchill confided to a friend that he wished he had during the war. He said he felt lonely, but last year the 79-year-old bulldog pulled himself
back to life by sheer will power.

Tempestuous Life — Churchill
has come closer to death more times than any other British states-
man. In the Malakand campaign near the Afghanistan border, he was almost killed by a Pathan tribesman. In the Boer war he was captured when an armored train was wrecked. The Boer who captured him turned out to be Louis Botha, who later became first
prime minister of the Transvaal.

Arriving by boat in India he fell off the deck and saved himself by grabbing a mooring rope. In World War I he was serving as a lieutenant colonel and left his underground trench to meet a general. The general never kept the appointment. When Churchill got back to his trench it had been blown to smithereens. When 18, while being chased by his brother and cousin in a game at Lady Winborne's home, Churchill jumped from a bridge to the tops of some young pine trees below. The drop was 30 feet, and he ended

up in bed for three months.

In New York forty years later, Churchill stepped off the curb and
was hit by a taxi driven by Mario Conastano. Quite badly injured,
he exonerated the driver, and managed to fill all but ten of 45 lecture
engagements.

Impossible Youth — In school at Harrow, Churchill, according to biographer John Gouder, was
"mentally unawake except when
up to mischief." Once he threw Charles Amery into the Harrow pool. Later Amery became his biographer and served in Churchill's World War II cabinet.

Only one man came to hear him
in the White House. Churchill's
first speech, it was scheduled to defend the "Entertainment Protection League" and attack those who wanted to ban music halls. When
only one man came to hear him,
Churchill hocked the watch given
him by his father and went out on the town. Churchill's father was Lord Henry Spencer Churchill. His mother was Jennie Jerome of Chester, N. Y.

When told by Field Marshal Slim that the army
would adopt a "bastard British"
half-American, half-British.
Churchill replied with solemn gravity: "My dear marshal, aren't you being a trifle careless with your words? Have you forgotten
that I too am half American, half

British?"

Four wars — Churchill studied
not at Oxford or Cambridge, but
at the British West Point, Sandhurst. He had a hard time getting in, didn't make it until the third try. But he graduated eighth in his class. Within five years
after graduation, Churchill managed to get into four wars. He was an observer for the British army in the Spanish-American war
in Cuba; went to the Malakand
campaign as a newspaperman —
since the British army wouldn't take him as an officer; also covered the Nile war and the Boer war.

Much later he became
secretary of war during World War
I and was responsible for the tragic decision to attack at Gallipoli
in the Dardanelles. It brought
one of the worst British defeats
in history; though if the British
had remained a few more days
the Turks would have surrendered.

Reaction against Churchill was so bitter after Gallipoli that he resigned from the cabinet and
joined his old regiment in France.
Churchill's decisions — Winnie
and FDR charted some of the most important strategy in the last war, and at times American generals and admirals resented it.
When visiting in the White House,
Churchill stayed up until 3 a. m.
every night talking to Harry Hopkins. Worn out, FDR always retired earlier. U. S. military men
outraged these visits, felt Churchill
put his views across late, when
they had departed and he was left alone with Hopkins.

Winnie wore a crimson and gold kimono,
loose bedroom slippers, used to flap down the White House hall to FDR's room. He got up just before noon, drank champagne at lunch, slept in the afternoon, and polished off a bottle of brandy
during the evening. Mrs. Roosevelt was never too happy about Winnie's visits, usually left town
when he arrived.

Churchill's War Politics — Winnie was dead opposed to the second
front across the English Channel.
That was one reason Stalin hated
him. He wanted to wear the Germans out in Italy and the Balkans, which he called the soft underbelly of the Axis. U. S. generals claimed the belly was anything but soft. When General
Al. Wedemeyer, chief of U. S.
War Plans, brusquely opposed Churchill's ideas on Mediterranean war, Winston arranged to have Wedemeyer transferred to China. It was Winnie who helped pick Gen. Charles De Gaulle
and made him the exiled leader
of the Free French, a decision
he's sometimes regretted. Another dubious decision was his instruction to General Skobie to "treat Athens as a conquered
city." It was this instruction plus Skobie's shooting down of Greek civilians in the streets which turned
the Greeks against the Allies and aided the Communists. Another historic decision was Churchill's remark: "I was not made prime minister to liquidate the British Empire." He said this in connection with FDR's proposal to give Hong Kong back to China
thereby strengthening Chiang Kai-shek. Chiang packed up and started to leave the Cairo conference after Churchill's turnaround.

Historians may claim that failure to bolster Chiang, plus failure to push the China-Burma front
was what really made China go Communist.

Churchill The Author — Churchill
has written 33 books including one novel, "Savrola." First book
was "The Life of Lord Randolph Churchill," a best-seller which paid
him $40,000. His books on World War I brought him $100,000, while
his recent books on World War II
will net him over a million.

Challenged in Parliament while speaking for Ireland, Churchill
once threw a book in the face of Ronald McNeill. It was not his book, but a copy of Parliamentary Rules and Etiquette.

IT HAPPENED IN SOUTHERN ILLINOIS: The Moon Is Being Ignored

By JOHN W. ALLEN
Southern Illinois University

In popular beliefs the moon was once credited with strange effects.
These ranged from the ebb and
flow of the tides to a somewhat
parallel reaction in human romance. The moon's effect on the tides remains undisputed. The writer has done no recent research
into the romantic effects of the moon. Perhaps its potency in that field is even now being challenged
by inquisitive scientists.

Many people of southern Illinois,
in fact people all over America,
once thought that the moon exerted
great force in many aspects of their daily life. It was credited with considerable influence over
growing crops, buildings, foods,
the weather and even over the
health and emotions of the individual. Some persons, therefore,
carefully took note of the changing phases of the moon and regulated their activities accordingly.

Planting of Crops
Some crops were planted "in the light of the moon," others "in the dark of the moon." The light of the moon begins with the appearance of the new moon and extends to the time when it is full. The time between the full moon and the succeeding new moon is termed
the dark of the moon.

Those crops that grew beneath
the ground, such as potatoes and peanuts were thought to be much more productive when planted in the dark of the moon. By the same token, any crop whose basic
product grew above the ground,
was planted in the light of the moon. Tomatoes, beans and corn were among these crops. Even though they were to be grown in rows planted side by side, it was thought best to plant each when
the moon was "right."

Everyone knew that the worm
of a rail fence should be laid in the light of the moon. Unless this precaution were observed, the bottom rails would shortly sink into
the ground and thus rot more quickly. When laid in the light of the moon the rails remained on the surface of the ground, naturally
lasted longer and then the fence remained a bit higher. Homes and other structures were often rested
upon wooden blocks or upon stones placed in shallow holes. If these wooden or stone blocks were positioned during the light of the moon they were not so prone to settle. The building thus remained level. Plank and corduroy roads were best laid in the light of the moon.

While it was best to set foundations for buildings during the light
of the moon, there were advantages in doing certain other building operations during the dark of the moon. Clapboards used for the roof of a building were laid during the dark of the moon. If this precaution were observed it guaranteed their lying flat and not "curling up" as would invariably happen if laid in the light of the moon.

Time To Butcher Hogs
The proper time for butchering
hogs was likewise observed. Bacon
from hogs killed during the light
of the moon just naturally fried
away, leaving only a thin remnant for eating. To partially compensate for this disadvantage, however, more lard could be obtained from those portions saved for rendering. The resulting crack-lings were naturally harder and drier. Bacon from hogs killed in the dark of the moon would retain more bulk when fried. The amount of lard obtained would be slightly less, but the cracklings would be softer and juicier. The butchering problem thus had its complications.

It was widely thought that the new moon influenced the weather
and that observation of the new moon would enable one to forecast
rains. In this case though, there were two exactly opposite schools
of thought. One group of prophets held that if the new moon were lying on its back it was holding
water and that rains were naturally to be expected. Another group contended that a new moon with tilted points indicated that water
was being poured out and rain was assured. There is no report that either of these contentions was ever scientifically established.

In the matter of health, particularly mental health, the moon
wielded a potent influence. Sleeping in the direct rays of the moon
could induce lunacy. Sleeping in the moonlight and with the mouth
open in such a way as to allow the moonbeams to shine into it, was even more dangerous. Its effect
must have been like the distiller's

product designated as "moonshine." It would not be proper to leave off discussion of the moon without calling attention to the "man in the moon." According to the best traditions, this man was put into
the moon for working on a Sunday,
supposedly burning brush. Those with vivid imaginations declared
that they could see the form of the man and his burning brushpile,
and even the unfortunate doggie,
which, knowing nothing of Sunday,
unwittingly scampered about his erriving master and was thus deemed guilty by association.

People still moon around, are
moonstruck, reach for the moon
and even make moonshine.

Swap Nights are Odd in Kalamazoo

KALAMAZOO, Mich.—(P)—Some big deals involving rare items are bound to develop when the Kalamazoo Collectors' Club meets for one of its periodic Swap Nights.

The shrewd and sharp-eyed collectors, possessed of an instinct all their own, come laden with the strangest of wares and sometimes depart with objects even stranger.

Books, stamps, coins, cigarette boxes, old firearms, powder pouches, silver tea pieces and 18th century beer steins exchanged hands at a recent meeting.

One man arrived with a barrel filled with driftwood. He traded the driftwood, barrel and all, for a pair of old carriage lamps.

Another trader, mindful of soaring coffee prices, triumphantly exchanged an ancient loom for an old coffee grinder and announced he was in the market for some beans.

Two befuddled collectors glanced disdainfully at an odd assortment of snowshoes, ticket stubs, garden tools and Indian relics, then swapped neckties.

Seek Damages as Result of Collision

Norman Hull and Viola Hull seek damages from Earl Wood as the result of a collision of two automobiles Dec. 30, 1953, at Ledford and Longley streets in Harrisburg.

Viola Hull asks $25,000 and Norman Hull seeks $1,500 for injuries and Hull is asking $750 auto damages, in the complaint filed for them in circuit court by the law firm, Rumsey and Dennis.

BULLDOZERS AND DUMP TRUCKS got busy yesterday morning as Eldorado citizens went to work to transform an eyesore into a public park. The location is on South Fourth street, on the west side of the L. & N. railroad and just north of Route 45. Here heavy equipment worked yesterday morning and townspeople, on a half-holiday, joined in yesterday afternoon to eliminate weeds and fill in an old pond, as shown in the above photo. Mayor John David Upchurch said the cleaning-up and filling-in job was "pretty well completed" yesterday. "We'll sow rye now and in the fall we'll sow blue grass," he stated. The site was obtained by the city through a long-term lease from the H. J. and W. J. Meyer Elevator Co., for use as a park or for industry. Fifteen trucks hauled dirt from a hill on the Clyde Cox farm, two miles from the park project. Giving most trouble was the bases of old brick kilns imbedded in the dirt, as the new park formerly was the site of a brick-making plant. The new park will be known as Poston park. Virginia Hill, Gangster's Girl Friend, is Indicted

LOS ANGELES — Virginia Hill, onetime international playgirl and gangster's girl friend, was wanted today on charges of evading $80,180 in federal income taxes.

However, the shapely brunette was apparently out of the law's reach. Officials said she was visiting in Salzburg, Austria, and there is no legal provision for extradition in income tax cases.

A federal grand jury indicted her Wednesday. She was accused of reporting earnings far below her actual income in the years 1944 to 1947.

Miss Hill, in whose Beverly Hills, Calif., home gangster Benjamin (Bugsie) Siegel was murdered in 1947, is now married to ski instructor Johann (Hans) Hauser and is residing in Europe.

Miss Hill, the daughter of an Alabama mule and horse trader, became known as the underworld's pin-up girl.

Suspicious Wives Ordered to Pay Girl $3,000

SMITHFIELD, N. C. — A pretty high school graduate said she has not decided today whether to use a college "scholarship" awarded her in a unique court ruling or collect $3,000 cash when she is 21.

Miss Betty Perry, an 18-year-old beauty now working in a 5 and 10 cent store, said she has "not made up my mind for sure" how to use the money three housewives must pay, or else serve prison terms, for a kidnapping and a slur on her reputation.

Judge Joseph Parker issued the unusual ruling after the three women pleaded guilty Tuesday to the dark-eyed, brunette girl's charge that they kidnapped her from school and falsely accused her of romancing with one of their husbands.

They also made her face "sore" with slaps, the girl said.

Says No Reason For Suspicion

Mrs. Ray A. Lynch, 35, who testified it all started after she found the girl's picture in her husband's pocket, said she "didn't think much" of the judge's order but would not appeal because "I've had enough court already."

The other women in the case are Mrs. Mary Parrish, 24, and Mrs. Loueva Medlin, 33, both sisters of Mrs. Lynch's husband. They have already made $250 down payments on Miss Perry's college education fund.

Mrs. Lynch said she had given her $250 to her husband to pay the court.

Lynch, a filling station operator in his 30's, and the girl said there was no reason for his wife's suspicion. He denied he ever had her picture or ever had a date with her.

Judge Parker said the $1,000 each woman must pay into the court fund for the girl in installments during the next four years is neither a "fine" nor "damages" but a condition of having their prison terms of three to five years each suspended.

STRENGTHEN HIS POSITION
The vote was 14 votes greater than he won on June 18 when he was approved by the Assembly as the new leader of the French government.

Mendes-France reported on his meeting Wednesday in Bern, Switzerland, with the Communist premier and foreign minister.

During the talks, he said, "We agreed to realize as rapidly as possible a settlement of the military problems."

The "do-it-now" premier assured the assembly that he will not engage in "planetary" horsestrading, scuttling the European Army plan to get an Indo-China peace.

Mendes-France said other meetings are intended with Chou. Unconfirmed French press reports said this may be before July 12.

China Promises Settlement, Mendes Reports

PARIS — French Premier Pierre Mendes-France told the National Assembly today that Red China's Premier Chou En-Lai has promised a military settlement—the long-awaited cease-fire—in Indo-China as speedily as possible.

Mendes-France, who promised the nation peace in Indo-China by July 20 or his own resignation, won a thumping 433-23 vote of confidence from the Assembly on the steps taken so far to make good his pledge.

The vote was taken on his request to postpone indefinitely questions on the composition of his Cabinet to leave him free to concentrate on his end-the-war efforts.

Mendes-France reported on his meeting Wednesday in Bern, Switzerland, with the Communist premier and foreign minister.

During the talks, he said, "We agreed to realize as rapidly as possible a settlement of the military problems."

The "do-it-now" premier assured the assembly that he will not engage in "planetary" horsestrading, scuttling the European Army plan to get an Indo-China peace.

Mendes-France said other meetings are intended with Chou. Unconfirmed French press reports said this may be before July 12.

Guatemala Asks Immediate Action by UN

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. — (AP) — Guatemala told the United Nations today that the anti-Communist rebels have threatened mass bombings of Guatemala cities within 24 hours and demanded an emergency meeting of the Security Council to deal with the situation.

The government, in telegrams addressed to all Security Council members, said "more than 45 cities and villages" already have been bombed and strafed by rebel planes.

"Guatemala lacks the means to repel such criminal attacks," the government said.

Cities Rebel Radio Warning
The demand for Security Council action said the clandestine rebel radio has warned that "within 24 hours massive air attacks with heavy bombs will be launched against Guatemala City and other towns."

The government description of the extent of the rebel attack came as a surprise following earlier official government claims that the rebel uprising had made little headway, was being crushed and has caused few if any casualties.

Today's appeal to the Security Council said "the civil population has been machinegunned and bombed with hundreds of pounds of explosives."

Guatemala urged that the Security Council meet to consider the matter "not later than... June 24."

Negro Wanted for Murder of Woman Is Held at Chester

CHESTER, Ill. — John Bullock, 31-year-old Oceanport, N. J., Negro wanted for the murder of a woman friend in Red Bank, N. J., was held in jail here today awaiting arrival of New Jersey law officers.

Bullock was arrested in Sparta last Saturday 10 minutes after he robbed a grocery store of $50. While being fingerprinted, he admitted to Deputy Sheriff Carl Adams that he shot Amelia Johnson. He said he did not know the woman had died of the wounds from his .32 caliber pistol.

New Jersey officials said Bullock who waived extradition, was wanted for the murder, burglary, arson and theft of the dead woman's car.

Bullock, who is married, was arrested with Marie Richardson, 19, of Red Bank, who aided him in the robbery, authorities said.

Tips on Traffic Safety

By CHARLES F. CARPENTIER
Secretary of State

Highway engineers are making directional signs along the road bigger and are using larger lettering on them to enable you to read them at today's highway speeds, but even so it is a frequent experience to find your route turns at an intersection you have almost reached.

Play it safe. Pass the intersection, turn around at the first safe opportunity and come back to it from the other direction. Don't try to make a sudden turn or a sudden stop when you are traveling at today's highway speeds. You can easily lose control of your car completely by such sudden movements at those speeds.

Even if you should maintain control of your own car, the fellow behind you may be caught entirely by surprise and crash into it. It is far safer to pass the intersection, give the proper arm signal to the car behind and come to a gradual stop. Then you can go back to the intersection and make your turn without endangering your life or those of others.

A copy of the completely new "Rules of the Road" booklet will be sent to you free upon request. Write to CHARLES F. CARPENTIER, Secretary of State, Springfield, Illinois.

Churchill and Eden Leave for Talks in U. S.

LONDON — Prime Minister Winston Churchill took off for Washington tonight on a "tough" assignment to mend the Anglo-American alliance in direct talks with President Eisenhower.

Churchill is accompanied on his flying trip to the American capital by Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, the man slated to succeed him as Britain's leader.

The two boarded an American-built Stratocruiser, the "Canopus," for a trans-Atlantic flight which will land them in Washington at 9 a. m. EDT Friday.

Shortly before taking off, Churchill cancelled an extraordinary Cabinet meeting to confer instead with Australia's minister of external affairs.

Churchill called the third extraordinary Cabinet session in three days a few hours before he and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden were due to depart for the United States.

A short time later, he cancelled the Cabinet summons to devote as much time as possible to a meeting with Australia's R. G. Casey and a discussion of Southeast Asia affairs.

The 79-year-old Churchill's primary mission was to try to patch up differences in the Anglo-American alliance, which he has done so much to weld since World War II.

In an important speech on British foreign policy Wednesday in the House of Commons Eden outlined the points he and Churchill will make in their Washington talks.

Proposes Treaty
Eden proposed a Locarno-type treaty in which both the Communists and the free world would guarantee the peace in Southeast Asia. The 1925 treaty signed in Locarno, Switzerland, pledged Britain, France, Germany, Italy and Belgium to guarantee the peace of Western Europe.

The British foreign secretary said "we could also have a defensive alliance such as the North Atlantic Treaty Organization is in Europe."

He said Britain was ready to support and discuss a Southeast Asia Treaty Organization (SEATO) with Mr. Eisenhower and Dulles. But Britain will insist on moving slowly toward such an alliance in order to gain the support of India, Ceylon, Burma, Indonesia and other Asian nations, he added.

The British leaders leave with the enthusiastic support of all British parties, as expressed in Commons, for patient but firm negotiations with the Communists and warmer British relations with Red China.

Inspect Site at Olney for National Plowing Matches

OLNEY, Ill. — Stillman J. Stanard, state director of agriculture, Wednesday toured the site for the 1954 state and national plowing matches and said he doesn't see how the September event can be "anything but an outstanding success."

Stanard was accompanied by Assistant State Director George Iffner.

"Richland county people have done a marvelous job," Stanard said.

The plowing matches will be held in an area northwest of here on Sept. 16, 17 and 18.

Gov. William G. Stratton is expected to tour the site July 5.

MRS. NORMAN HUGHES
"A Joy to Use Mrs. Tucker's Shortening"
Says Cairo Cake-Baking Expert

Here's what Mrs. Norman Hughes, 521 Cross, Cairo, Ill., says of her recent experience in baking a white cake made with Mrs. Tucker's Shortening. "It was a joy to use Mrs. Tucker's because it was so white and creamy and blended magically into my batter. My cake turned out beautifully and was wonderfully rich, light and tasty. I am glad to recommend Mrs. Tucker's ALL-Vegetable Shortening to women who are interested in baking superior cakes."

Here's Mrs. Tucker's amazing triple guarantee — If you don't say: "(1) Mrs. Tucker's makes any bread or cake richer, more moist and tender... (2) any pastry lighter and flakier... (3) any fried foods tastier and more digestible," send the recipe to Mrs. Tucker telling what you don't like about the results, and she will pay you for all the ingredients used PLUS a dollar for your time.

Mrs. Hughes' White Cake

Sift together into a bowl: 2 1/2 cups sifted cake flour, 1/2 cup sugar, 1/2 teaspoon baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon salt. Add: 1 cup Mrs. TUCKER'S Shortening, 1 cup milk, 1 cup water, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1/2 teaspoon lemon flavoring.

Beat for 2 minutes on medium speed of mixer or by hand, counting 150 beating strokes a minute. Then add 1/2 cup unbeaten egg whites.

Beat again for 2 minutes as before. If desired, 1/2 cup shredded coconut may be folded in last. Pour batter into 2 round 9-inch layer cake pans which have been lined with wax paper cut to fit. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) 25 to 30 minutes or until done. Ice with fudge icing.

Britain Refuses Asylum for American Doctor

LONDON — Britain today rejected a plea for "political asylum" by a young American doctor who admitted he once was a Communist and refused to return to the United States because he feared political persecution.

Home Secretary Sir David Maxwell Fyfe announced in the House of Commons that 26-year-old Dr. Joseph Cort, formerly of Boston, will have to leave by June 30. Cort had refused to return to the U. S. to report to his draft board, and the American embassy took up his passport.

Cort said he did not want to return home because he had been a Communist while a medical student at Yale, later withdrew from the party, but still feared the consequences. He said he now would be subject to political persecution, including jail and unemployment.

Eisenhower is Opposed to Pension for Hiss

WASHINGTON — Two federal agencies scrambled today to get into line behind President Eisenhower in opposing a government pension for Alger Hiss.

The Budget Bureau and Civil Service Commission this week took issue with various bills aimed at denying retirement payments to Hiss and any other government employee convicted of a felony involving the misuse of authority.

Rep. Kit Cloudy (R-Mich.), sponsor of one of the measures, said he was "shocked" and "boiling mad" at their stand since Hiss, a former State Department official, was convicted of perjury for denying he passed secrets to the Communists.

The White House then announced late Wednesday that Mr. Eisenhower feels Hiss should not receive a federal pension, that all government agencies should follow the Army retirement plan under which pensions are paid only for honorable service.

The bureau and commission promptly issued statements declaring they, too, are not opposed to denying pension payments to Hiss or other felons—as long as it is "under a valid statute" or legislation that is "constitutional."

Rep. Albert W. Cretella (R-Conn.), chairman of a Civil Service subcommittee, said his group will approve some measure stripping felons of pension rights since there is "overwhelming sentiment" that traitors to their government shall not profit at its expense.

Full name of President Cleveland was Stephen Grover Cleveland.

500 Prisoners Riot at Pontiac; Inmate is Killed

Police, Guards Halt Rioting With Tear Gas

PONTIAC, ILL.—(UP)—A board of inquiry began an investigation today into a riot of 500 prisoners at the Illinois State Reformatory Wednesday night in which an inmate was killed.

The riot began about 6:15 p. m. as prisoners were being led to their cells in the west cellblock.

State police and prison guards fired tear gas into the cellblock to bring the situation under control about two hours later.

State Superintendent of Prisons James Denney said a board of inquiry was investigating the cause of the riot and indicated that "several prosecutions" would be made. He refused, however, to identify them.

Negro Prisoner Killed
A skeleton guard of 25 state police remained at the prison through the night under the direction of State Police Chief Philip M. Brown.

Warden Daniel E. Bergan said a pathologist was called in by the coroner to determine the "exact circumstances and responsibility" for the death of a Negro prisoner, Edwin Jenkins, 21, Chicago, who was serving a five-to-14-year term for assault to rob.

He said Jenkins apparently made an attempt to leave the gas-filled cellblock, but was struck on the head and killed in a fight with fellow inmates.

A guard, Charles Armel, was treated at the prison hospital for bruises and cuts on the head, but was later released.

Sees It Coming
Bergan said the riot was preceded by isolated signs of bad temper among a few inmates.

"We had some trouble Tuesday night when three inmates began raising cane in their cells," he said. "Officers went to put them into dead-end isolation cells, but they broke away and ran through the cellhouse before they were caught."

UN Discloses Soviet Rejection Of New A-Plan

LONDON — The United States proposed a new international authority to ban hydrogen and atomic bombs and oversee nuclear development but Russia rejected the plan, the United Nations disclosed today.

The U. N. report was published on the secret disarmament talks that ended in a deadlock here Tuesday.

It disclosed that Britain and France also presented new step-by-step disarmament plans to ban hydrogen and atomic weapons and cut regular armies within two to five years but Russia rejected these as well as the American proposals.

Old Hat Proposals
The report showed Russia again presented practically the same disarmament proposals it has put forward since 1946 which were in turn rejected by the West. These proposals included a one-third cut in conventional armed forces within a year of what the West calls a "paper ban" on atomic weapons.

The U. S. outlined in detail its ideas for an international atomic authority that could fit into almost any disarmament plan.

One division of the authority would be devoted to disarmament. It would have teams of inspectors to enforce the ban on mass destruction weapons. An atomic development division would oversee development of atomic energy for peaceful uses.

"Legalize the Bomb"
In the Anglo-French plan the West offered to renounce all mass destruction weapons except in defense against aggression. Soviet delegate Jacob A. Malik charged this would "legalize the bomb."

The U. S. plan called for roving and resident teams of inspectors who would be permitted to enter any factory and shut down violators of the ban subject to review of the atomic authority.

A single nation's veto could not stop the authority from acting.

The authority would be composed of the U. S., Britain, France, Canada and Russia plus the nations that signed the disarmament treaty. It would report both to the U. N. Security Council and the General Assembly.

Merle Young Begins Serving Sentence

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. — E. Merle Young, former Reconstruction Finance Corp. official convicted of perjury in Washington's sensational "mink coat" investigations three years ago, started serving his sentence here Wednesday.

The U. S. Court of Appeals in Washington last April 8 upheld Young's conviction of lying before a Senate inquiry about his relations with the Lustron Corp. while an RFC official.

Young, who left a $7,500 a year post with the RFC to become a high salaried Washington representative for several firms, will serve out his time at Tallahassee's federal correctional institution. He was sentenced to from four months to two years.

Big Appetites Get Attention on Ships

NEW YORK — The best place for a big appetite is aboard a modern passenger ship, according to United States Lines.

The company reports that the 1,536 passengers and 1,000 officers and crew members aboard a recent nine-day round trip of the superliner United States did away with 64,654 pounds of prime fresh meats and 20,512 pounds of poultry.

That works out to about two and four-fifths pounds of meat a day per person, or six times higher than the national per capita consumption of under half a pound.

A mound of drumsticks piled up as each passenger averaged about 14 ounces of chicken daily during the same voyage, about nine times the national intake of one and one-half ounces a day.

The appetite survey showed that sea breezes worked gastronomic wonders in other ways, too. Miscellaneous totals proved that passengers on both the United States and her luxury liner running-mate, the America, still leave room for such delicacies as terrine de foie gras de Strasbourg, borsch a la Russe, rock bass and caviar and vats of coffee.

Slight Accident Sets Off Chain Reaction

SAGINAW, Mich. — Hazel Long started a chain reaction when she was involved in a minor traffic accident here.

After the collision, she pulled to the curb to survey the damage. Another car promptly rammed her crippled automobile.

Deputy Sheriff James Hazel arrived on the scene and the woman began relating the details of the mishaps.

Along came another car which nicked Miss Long and sent her flying. She suffered numerous bruises and was more than happy to be transported to a hospital for treatment.

Little Haddix, Who Dropped In for Tryout, 'Controls' N. L. Batlers

By JIMMY BRESLIN
NEW YORK (AP)—Eddie Stanky headed across the infield to the Cardinals' dugout and, as he crossed the third base line, made a crack to chubby Freddie Fitzsimmons, the Giants' coach.

"For a guy with pitching headaches, Stanky seems in a pretty good mood," somebody remarked to Fitzsimmons.

Freddie motioned to the side of the St. Louis dugout, where a little left-hander was warming up with an easy motion.

The pitcher was, of course, Harvey Haddix. He's the guy who steps out, once every four days, and shuts the door on the flood of runs which normally cross the plate when the Cardinals are in the field.

The slim Cardinal hurler, whose three-quarter overhand motion reminds so much of Harry (The Cat) Brecheen that he is nicknamed The Kitten, took 10 of his first 12 decisions this year in an obvious bid to top the 20-9 mark he posted last season, his first full one in the majors.

"I've been on clubs that had some fine pitchers," Stanky observes. "This guy is right up with them. I mean fellows like Johnny Sain and Warren Spahn, when we won in Boston, the Sal Maglie of 1951."

Giants' Pitcher Is Fined; Faces New Traffic Charge

YONKERS, N. Y. (AP)—Pitcher Hoyt Wilhelm of the New York Giants, who was tagged with a $60 fine Wednesday for traffic violations in nearby Tarrytown, N. Y., faces charges here today that he collided with a patrol car.

The Giants' star relief hurler was fined in Tarrytown on the triple count of driving 60 miles per hour in a 25 m. p. h. zone, failing to have a New York state operator's license, and using profane and abusive language to the arresting officer. This incident occurred last Saturday night.

On Sunday night, Wilhelm was involved here in a crash with a police car. He and three other persons, including his wife and the policeman driving the patrol car, were slightly injured.

Wilhelm did not appear personally in court in Tarrytown Wednesday, but was represented by Edgar P. Feeley, treasurer of the Giants.

In the Tarrytown incident, it was charged that Wilhelm resisted arrest. He was taken to jail and bailed out by Whitey Lockman, the first baseman.

and Hugh Casey of Brooklyn. They all were great—but I'll take Haddix."

In the midst of all this talk about how high he rates—and his record-bent shutout hurling, Haddix keeps quiet.

"Shutouts are fine, but I don't go nuts about them," he says. "Just give me those wins. A 7-6 win is just as good as a 7-0 one, as far as the records go, anyway."

Haddix started in the Cardinal chain as a 19-5 winner for Winston-Salem of the Carolina League in 1947, and his presence in the system cost the club exactly nothing.

In 1943, Harvey traveled from his South Vienna, O., home to a Cardinal tryout camp at Columbus, 35 miles away. He registered as a first baseman, outfielder or pitcher, but when Scouts Tony Kaufmann and Walter Shannon looked him over, they informed Haddix he was strictly a pitcher.

He scaled only 139 pounds on a five-six frame, but late in '46 the Red Birds gave him a chance and he delivered at Winston-Salem. For a bonus, he received nothing more than a free rail ticket to the North Carolina city.

That started a steady rise to the majors, which was interrupted by a two-year stint in the Army. He came back late in 1952 and had a 2-2 mark in seven contests.

The Kitten, 5-9 and 163 pounds now, is supprisingly quick for his size. He has a sharp variety of stuff, with a curve, slider and knuckler mixed in with his fast one and let-up.

"I just throw the thing I think I need," he says. "Against the Giants, I struck with my slider. I was getting them out with it, you see. Against Brooklyn, I remember throwing a lot of curves. It's just what's working for me."

Control came naturally to Haddix, 28, and the son of a former semi-professional pitcher. He led the National League in shutouts with six last year and as he heads toward the same position this season, he's doing the same. When he blanked the red hot Giants the other night, he ran his consecutive string of scoreless innings to 32. Carl Hubbell of the Giants holds the NL record, 46 1-3, established in 1933.

Haddix made it nine straight and had a run of six complete games.

"Harvey Haddix just puts the first one in there like it's automatic and lets the hitter worry about it from there on," explains Eddie Stanky.

McCarthy Attack Defeats GOP in Annual Tilt, 2-1

WASHINGTON (AP)—Victory-starved Republicans admitted today they are unhappy about the latest "McCarthy" attack.

After going down to defeat at the hands of the Democrats for six straight years, GOP lawmakers said it was like rubbing salt in their wounds for a Democrat named McCarthy (Rep. Eugene J. of Minnesota) to be chiefly responsible for stretching the string to seven.

It all happened at the annual Congressional baseball game Wednesday night at Griffith Stadium. The Democrats won 2-1.

It was a dramatic moment when McCarthy stepped to the plate in the last inning. Two men were out. The score was tied. Cries of encouragement arose from the Democratic bench.

Rep. Glenn Davis (R-Calif.) fired his special G-O-Per ball and McCarthy smacked it 350 feet to score Rep. Alfred D. Sieminski (N.J.) and end the game.

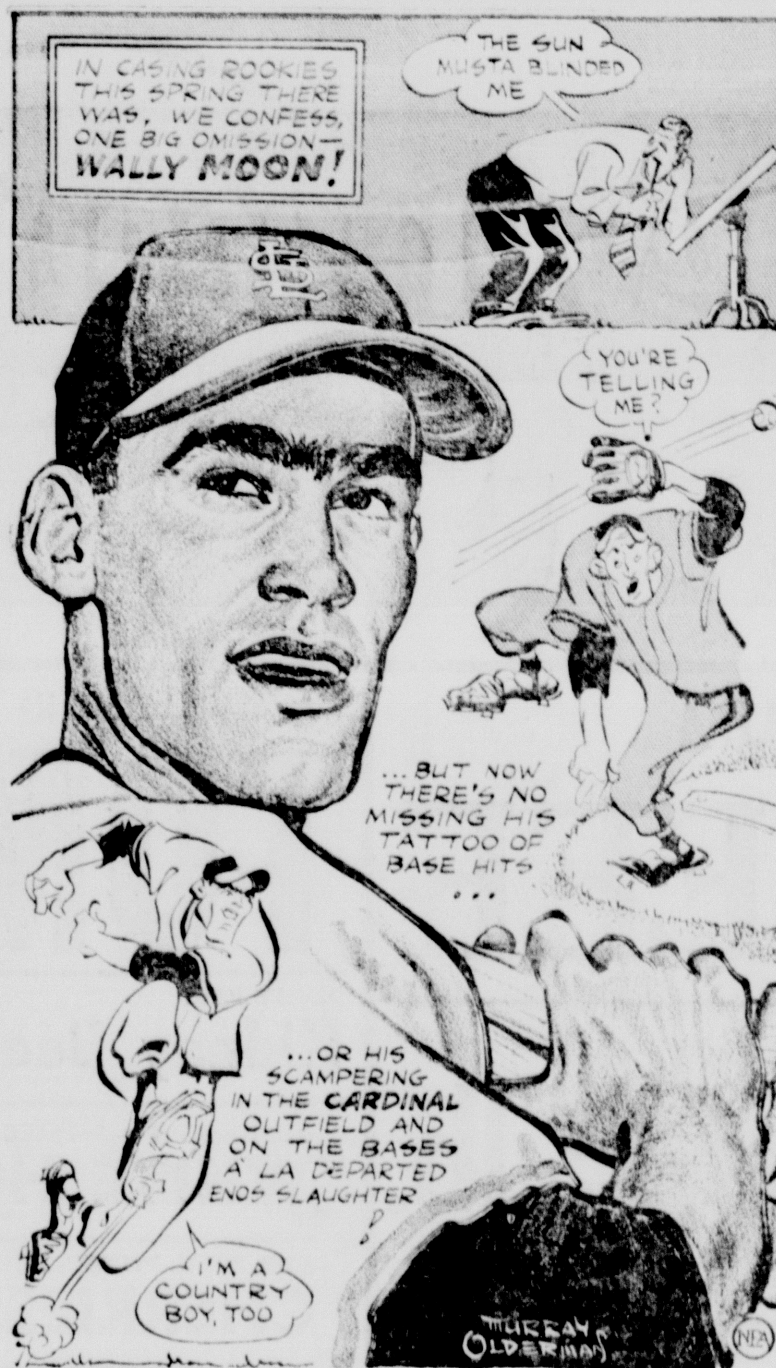

Sharing the heroics with McCarthy were Reps. W. M. (Schine Ball) Wheeler of Georgia and Sieminski. Wheeler treated the crowd of 4,000 at the charity game to a sterling no-hit pitching performance.

But despite Wheeler's pitching performance, the Democrats went into the final inning trailing 1-0. That was when Sieminski and McCarthy took over.

The Republicans got their only run on two walks and an error by shortstop Hugh J. Addonizio (D-N.J.).

Walker's Beat Texaco Chief's 1-0, In Pitching Duel

Three games were played in the Kiwanis baseball league Wednesday with Walker's Cleaners, Shells and James Bros. the winners.

In the best game of the year, Walker's eked out a 1-0 decision over the Texaco Chiefs, the game going nine innings. Seven innings is required regulation length in the Kiwanis league.

Hatcher of Walker's and Dowdy of the losing Chiefs duelled through eight scoreless frames, but in the last of the ninth the winners bunched two of their four hits for the only run of the game. Aldridge singled to start the rally and came around to score when Whiteside drilled a triple to left.

Hatcher allowed only two hits, being touched for safe blows by the first two batters he faced. From then on he was a hitless hurler.

Shells and the Athletic House also engaged in a good game, with the Shells winning 7-4. Howton was the winning pitcher and Dunn hit safely three times in four tries to pace the attack.

James Bros. pounded out a 23-3 victory over the NYC Sunrise Park team. Goins was the star of this game, hitting five times in as many attempts and also hurling the victory for James Bros.

Haddix Wins 10th Straight Victory as Rip Repulski Adds to Hitting Streak

By MILTON RICHMAN
United Press Sports Writer

Harvey Haddix ranks as the hottest pitcher in the majors today and Rip Repulski as the hottest hitter, all of which keeps Manager Eddie Stanky wondering how come his Cardinals are only in a lukewarm fifth place tie.

Haddix and Repulski, each of whom was instrumental in the Cards' 7-1 victory over the Pirates Wednesday night, are in the midst of two separate red-hot streaks.

Wednesday night's triumph over Pittsburgh was the 10th in a row for the 28-year-old, left-handed Haddix and his 12th triumph of the season. Unbeaten since April 29 when the Dodgers nipped him, 4-3, Haddix had hurled 37 scoreless innings—only 3 short of Carl Hubbell's National league record—until the Bucs broke through with a run.

Repulski collected three of the Cards' 10 hits Wednesday night, including his 11th homer with one on in the ninth. It marked the ninth straight game since June 13 that he collected two or more hits. During that stretch, Haddix has rapped out 20 hits in 40 times up for a sizzling .500.

Yet the Cards are merely tied with the Reds, who lost to Brooklyn 6-3 for fifth place.

Milwaukee Wins, 5-2

Don Newcombe set down Cincinnati on six hits in pitching the Dodgers to within one game of the league-leading Giants, who bowed to Milwaukee, 5-2. With Brooklyn trailing 2-0, Duke Snider tripped with the bases loaded in the third and then came home on Gil Hodges' single.

Home runs by Joe Adcock, Del Crandall and Andy Pafko contributed to the Giants' downfall although relief pitcher Dave Jolly merited equal credit for snuffing out a ninth inning threat with none out and the bases full. Jim Wilson was the winner in a game which saw Willie Mays hit his 22nd homer for the Giants.

Southpaw Curt Simmons let the Cubs down on seven hits to hurl the Phillies to a 5-3 victory. Randy Jackson homered for Chicago.

The Orioles pushed over a run in the 17th inning to defeat the Red Sox in a game which consumed 4 hours and 58 minutes and set an American league record.

Score Triple Play

Adding to the uniqueness of the game was a first inning triple play pulled off by the Red Sox plus the return to action of Ted Williams for the first time since June 5. He pinch hit in the seventh and fouled out.

Cleveland retained its three-game lead in the American league with a 5-2 triumph over Philadelphia. Bob Trice, the loser, allowed only six hits, but three of them were homers by Larry Doby. Al Rosen and winning pitcher Bob Lemon.

The White Sox routed Bob Porterfield with five runs in the first inning and went on to defeat the Senators, 8-6. Morrie Martin, the third Chicago harrier, pitched scoreless ball over the last four frames to earn the conquest.

A pair of doubles by Gil McDougald, each with the bases full, helped the Yankees beat the Tigers 9-4. Whitey Ford relieved Jim McDonald in the fifth and was the winner as Hank Bauer homered for New York.

SEE ILLINOIS NOW—A visit to the State Historical Library in Springfield is suggested this week by Governor William G. Stratton in connection with the "See Illinois Now" travel program. The Historical Library is located on the third floor of the Centennial building. Its collection of Lincoln manuscripts ranks as the third largest in the world. There are over 1,000 items written in Lincoln's own hand. Among the collection are contemporary pictures and miniatures of Lincoln, a desk used by him, a pair of his riding gloves, and his cane. There are 19 letters written by Lincoln to his intimate friend Joshua F. Speed. A copy of Lincoln's famous Gettysburg Address, written in his own hand, is on display at the Library.

Visit to Historical Library Suggested In 'See Illinois Now' Travel Program

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — For over half a century the Illinois State Historical Library has been actively engaged in distinguishing Abraham Lincoln the man from Abraham Lincoln the myth.

The Historical Library has made the collection of information about Lincoln one of its major objectives. Its holdings of books, manuscripts, and pictures separate facts from fiction in Lincoln lore.

A visit to the Historical Library in Springfield is suggested this week by Governor William G. Stratton in connection with the "See Illinois Now" travel program that is being sponsored by a group of state departments.

The Lincoln collection is located on the third floor of the Illinois Centennial Building. This building also houses the Illinois State Museum where the state has preserved objects of scientific and artistic value representing the life and work of man, geological history, natural resources, and manufacturing and fine arts.

Over 1,000 Manuscripts

The Centennial Building stands on the site of the Ninian W. Edwards home. It was here that Abraham Lincoln courted Mary Todd, was married to her in 1842, and, 40 years later, where Mrs. Lincoln died.

The Historical Library holds over 1,000 manuscripts written in Lincoln's own hand. They range chronologically from a signature on a petition to the Sangamon County Commissioners' Court in March, 1831—one year after Lincoln arrived in Illinois—to a telegram to Secretary of War Edwin M. Stanton from City Point, Virginia, 11 days before the President's death.

More than half of these manuscripts were written by Lincoln during his 31 years in Illinois. The third, prepared for Edward Everett, is on permanent display at the Library along with the manuscript of the address made by Everett at Gettysburg, Illinois school children, with the assistance of Marshall Field, purchased these two documents for the Library in 1944 for $60,000.

In 1960, William Dean Howells wrote a 94-page biography of candidate Lincoln. Samuel C. Parks, an Illinois lawyer, sent his copy to Lincoln for correction. This copy, which is now in the Library, has 19 corrections made in Lincoln's hand.

Bathroom Beauty Found Top Project

BAYONNE, N. J. — Bath-room beautification is booming, according to a survey of builders in the New York-New Jersey area.

The check showed that in looking at prospective new homes, wives usually walk first to the kitchen, and then the bathroom.

The interest in bathroom beautification isn't limited to new homes, said Jack R. Dick, vice president of National Vanity, which made the builder survey. He said that a questionnaire to small home owners showed that the "next big modernization project" they planned was in the bathroom. More than one-third said they wanted to add new bathrooms, powder rooms, stall showers, or vanity laboratories.

Dick reported that the sudden attention to this long-neglected room is the result of dissatisfaction with storage space and lack of color.

State Booklet Outlines Proposed Amendments

Voters of Saline county will receive within the next few months a booklet, provided by the state, outlining the three proposed amendments to the Illinois Constitution to be voted on in November.

County Clerk Don B. Garrison reported he had received a shipment of booklets from Charles F. Carpenter, secretary of state. The booklets contain 12 pages and enough of them were printed for every voter in Illinois.

Included in the booklets are the present forms of the Constitution, proposed amendments to the Constitution, explanation of the proposed amendments, arguments in favor of the amendments and the form of the Blue Ballot.

The three amendments are the "Legislative Apportionment Amendment," the "State Treasurer Amendment" and the "Illinois and Michigan Canal Amendment."

The second amendment mentioned would lengthen the term of treasurer from two to four years. The third would eliminate the need for voter approval of the sale or lease of the Illinois and Michigan canals.

The one stirring up the most interest is the reapportionment amendment.

Arizona was admitted to the Union on Feb. 14, 1912.

STREET ROD

by Henry Gregor Felsen

Copyright 1953 by Henry Gregor Felsen. Printed by arrangement with the publishers, Random House, Inc. Distributed by MEA Service.

THE STORY: Ricky Madison's car craze at the age of 16 is a source of worry to his parents. Not only do they fear an accident from reckless driving, but they do not believe Merle Connor, a disreputable mechanic, who is helping Ricky build his "hot rod" is a good influence.

XI

Two weeks later Ricky drove down to Merle's after supper as usual. The big door to the garage was closed. Ricky blew his horn, but Merle didn't open up. Frowning, Ricky got out of the coupe and walked around to open the door himself. That's when he saw the FOR RENT sign propped in the window.

Ricky looked around helplessly, but there was no one to explain. Slowly Ricky got back in his car and drove to Merle's house. The old truck was in the yard, and several ragged little children were playing on it. Ricky climbed sagging steps, and knocked on the front door.

The door was opened by Merle's wife. She was a tired-looking woman with straw-colored hair and a pasty complexion. She was in her bare feet, and wearing a shapeless old print dress with a tear in the side. When the door opened a heavy smell of dirty bodies rushed out.

"I'd like to see Merle," Ricky said.

Connor's wife looked at him for a moment. "He's inside."

Ricky followed her, wrinkling his nose against the smell. There were dirty clothes thrown all over the place. The broken couch in the living room was covered by an old sheet, and there was a baby lying on it, fighting with a swarm of flies for possession of its bottle.

"Merle's in there," Connor's wife nodded toward the back room from which guitar and singing sounds came.

"Thanks."

Ricky went to the doorway and looked in. Merle was sitting on a chair with his feet stretched out to rest on the bed. He was dressed in baggy coveralls, and the greasy, red leather cap was on his head. He sang with a cigarette in his mouth.

Ricky waited until Merle had finished his song. "Hi, Merle. I stopped by the garage."

Merle turned his head. He stared at Ricky with bloodshot eyes that were angry and mean.

Merle's head sagged, and he mumbled to himself. Suddenly he looked up again, his face a dark red. "You ever hear of the Connor-Madison?" he asked, squinting at Ricky.

Ricky laughed hesitantly. "Good old Connor-Madison," he said. "Boy, that's a car that will be a car. It'll be the talk of the state when we get through with it."
